General information

The Legal Practice Course (LPC) at the University of Huddersfield is offered in both the full-time mode (over one year) and the part-time mode (one afternoon and one evening per week over two years).

The course, which was graded as “good” during the last full assessment visit carried out by the Law Society, is delivered by a team of professionally qualified tutors with extensive experience of corporate, commercial and private client legal practice. As such, it caters for the widest possible range of career aspirations.
