

Delegation framework

Introduction

Updated 28 September 2023 (Published 9 November 2022)

The SRA Delegation Framework sets out how the SRA's Board, Committees and Executive work together to discharge the SRA's functions.

The SRA is the regulator of solicitors and law firms in England and Wales, protecting consumers and supporting the rule of law and the administration of justice. We exercise the regulatory functions conferred on the Law Society of England and Wales (TLS) by statute relating to solicitors, registered European lawyers, registered foreign lawyers, law firms and individuals working and holding roles within those firms. The statutory powers are found within the Solicitors Act 1974, the Administration of Justice Act 1985, the Courts and Legal Services Act 1990, and the Legal Services Act 2007 (LSA 2007).

TLS has delegated its regulatory powers and functions to the SRA (the "Company"), an independent wholly-owned subsidiary of the Society. The TLS General Regulations set out the SRA's terms of reference, along with the framework governing assurance of its work by the Council. This is also governed by the Legal Services Board's Internal Governance Rules, the Company's Articles and an Assurance Protocol agreed between the Law Society and the Company.

The Company is entitled to carry out its delegated functions through its Board, sub-committees and staff. Delegations are a key element in effective governance and management. The Board has established three committees: the Audit and Risk Committee (ARC), Remuneration Committee (Remco) and Nominations Committee. Their Terms of Reference can be found at annex 2 of the Governance Handbook. Matters delegated to the Executive are carried out by individuals within the organisation in accordance with our published Schedule of Delegation [<https://www.sra.org.uk/sra/decision-making/schedule-delegation/>].

Delegation Principles

Delegation should:

1. Be robust and transparent, with clear lines of accountability and effective oversight.
2. Be consistent and proportionate - with decisions being made at the most effective operational level and reflecting the strategic role of the Board.
3. Promote efficiency - avoiding duplication and overlap of roles, and ensuring realistic sequencing/timelines to enable work to progress in a timely manner.

4. Reflect only the following key activities: prepare, approve, review, monitor, perform, report. [1] [#footnote-1]
