

SRA Update

Issue 126 - April 2024

- General updates [#tab_36051]
- Compliance updates [#tab_36052]

Welcome to the latest issue of SRA Update. This month we have details of how I and the rest of the senior team will be meeting some of you in both Manchester and Leicester over the coming months to discuss those issues that matter to you. These meetings will coincide with the latest of our Innovate events, examining how lawtech can help drive the profession forward. Also in this issue are your opportunities to have your say on consumer protection, regulating CILEX members and draft guidance for in-house lawyers.

Review of consumer protection measures under way

[<https://www.sra.org.uk/sra/news/press/consumer-protection-review-launched/>]

We have launched a review of consumer protection arrangements in response to shifting risks in the sector. The review focuses on how to reduce the risk that something goes wrong at a regulated law firm, while finding the right balance between protections and potential impact on the cost of legal services. Included in this review is consideration of compensation fund arrangements.

Keeping of the Roll now open

[<https://www.sra.org.uk/mysra/updates/apply-to-remain-on-roll/>]

All solicitors without a practising certificate who want to remain on the roll need to make an annual application to do so. The application window for doing this is now open and closes on 28 May.

New resources for in-house solicitors

[<https://www.sra.org.uk/home/hot-topics/working-in-house/>]

Responding to feedback we have received over the past 12 months, we published a new suite of draft guidance and resources designed specifically for in-house solicitors. Learn more about these materials, what issues they cover, and how you can provide feedback on the content.

Watch back sessions from our in-house conference

[<https://www.sra.org.uk/sra/news/events/on-demand-events/in-house-2024/>]

Coinciding with the release of our support materials for in-house solicitors, last month also saw our latest in-house annual conference. Topics discussed by our expert panels included in-house leadership, a solicitor's role in supporting their employer's approaches to environmental, social and governance issues, and how to maintain and develop skills and professional competence in an in-house setting.

Our virtual SQE conference took place on 22 March and provided useful insights for education and training providers, and those organisations that are offering qualifying work experience (QWE). The provision of QWE is one of the things we get asked about most. You can catch up on that session – and the rest of the conference – via our on-demand facility.

Consulting on CILEX members

[\[https://www.sra.org.uk/sra/news/press/cilex-consultation-2/\]](https://www.sra.org.uk/sra/news/press/cilex-consultation-2/)

We have launched a further consultation on rule changes needed to allow the potential regulation of non-authorised Chartered Institute of Legal Executives (CILEX) members. The suggested arrangements explain the rules that would apply to CILEX paralegals and students should CILEX's proposal to re-delegate regulation to us go ahead.

Welcome to the latest issue of Compliance News. There has been a lot of discussion over recent months about interest rates and interest accrued on client monies held on account. While for many of you this isn't an issue as the money passes in and out so quickly, there are a number who have found there are financial benefits to this as interest rates remain quite high. Your obligations to account to clients for a 'fair sum' for any interest earned are discussed in greater detail below. Also this month, book your place at our latest anti-money laundering webinar, and familiarise yourself with our sanctions regime guidance. Every firm is subject to the Government's regime and there might be areas that you now have to comply with and which you are unfamiliar.

Interest rates and the client account

[<https://www.sra.org.uk/sra/news/sra-update-126-interest-rates/>]

A recent survey by the Law Society found that some firms have been financially 'propped up' by interest earned on money held in the client account. Firms have a duty to account to clients for a 'fair sum' for any interest earned by their money.

Webinar – Your AML questions answered

[<https://events.sra.org.uk/sra/688/home>]

We have a whole host of questions and answers about common money-laundering issues on our website, while our other webinars have attracted frequently occurring queries from the profession. We have a look at those queries in our latest free webinar on Monday 13 May.

Sanctions guidance – all firms must comply

[<https://www.sra.org.uk/solicitors/guidance/sanctions-regime-firm-wide-risk-assessments/>]

The sanctions regime is run by the Government and supports measures to protect the UK's interests. All firms are captured by the regime, it is not just for those firms that are in scope of the money-laundering regulations. We have produced guidance on complying with sanctions as a large number of you will not be familiar with some of the requirements.

Politically exposed persons – changes to the regulations

[<https://www.sra.org.uk/sra/news/sra-update-123-pep-changes/>]

The money laundering regulations have been changed to alter the status of politically exposed persons (PEPs) depending on whether or not they are from the UK or overseas. While you must still carry out the same amount of due diligence, such PEPs are now deemed lower risk.
