Legal Practice Course (LPC) profile September 2013

Please note: The information contained in this profile is supplied by Swansea University; it is the provider’s responsibility to keep this information up-to-date.

Introduction from the SRA

The SRA’s requirements allow providers considerable freedom to design and focus their courses to meet the needs of particular student cohorts and particular types of legal practice. Providers have a corresponding responsibility to provide clear and useful information to those making choices about where to study and which particular course to follow. To enable potential students to make informed choices, the SRA requires all providers to supply a standard set of information about their provision.

General information

“…a strongly campus-based lifestyle; a stylish campus, near the sea, or city, or mountains; generous accommodation either on campus or in a student community close-by; a wealth of cultural activity on campus; lots of high-quality sports provision - and a sound academic reputation! An impossible dream? Well without going too far over the top, we have to say that Swansea has it all…”

Learning resources available to support the course, including library and IT provision

The Swansea LPC commands first-class facilities including state-of-the-art teaching rooms and excellent IT and library resources, housed within a dedicated LPC resources room. It is delivered by highly professional and experienced staff within a friendly and supportive learning environment that is consistently praised by students in written testimonials.

The LPC is situated in the Richard Price building on the university campus (all University facilities are open to LPC students) as part of the Swansea Law School.

LPC teaching takes place within the Richard Price building. Large group and small group sessions take place in state-of-the-art teaching rooms, two of which are dedicated to the LPC. This supports course identity and cohesion.

The dedicated LPC teaching rooms equipped with visualisers, whiteboards and relevant IT hardware. The layout of the furniture in the teaching rooms is in pod formation which better suits interaction between the students and the facilitation of student-centred activity. The visualisers in each room are used to display supporting material, worked examples of activities and also student presentations to the whole class, or their work on class activities.

The dedicated law resource room in the Law School building is a professional-material resource centre also housing a dedicated IT suite. The LPC resource room has 20 PCs and 20 study spaces. Students can freely access their own IT accounts as well as accessing online resources as well as traditional paper copy library materials. The LPC resource room is equipped with practitioner texts in each of the compulsory and elective areas. It is fully networked and enjoys full wireless capability (as are the main library and all LPC teaching rooms) for access to electronic software, email, networks and databases. The PCs are password protected. Students can access the university’s wireless network using their own laptop or may borrow a laptop from the LIS issue desk for personal study use. In addition LPC students have access to a photocopier and a dedicated printer in the LPC resource centre. Access is restricted to LPC staff and students by means of a swipe pad.

Library maintenance of the room and its materials is carried out by the senior library assistant, whose core responsibility is support of the LPC Course in general. The PCs, printer and photocopier are all maintained by Swansea University Library IT support staff. A member of the careers staff updates the careers information in the resource room. There are other full computer facilities in the Law department to which LPC students have access; with the ratio of PCs to students being 1 to 6. Swansea University has information and technical assistance readily available for all students. Students are also able to easily use the general law library materials housed in the LIS building, a few minutes' walk across campus.
The large group session teaching room is also situated on the first floor of the Richard Price building and is used to deliver large group sessions as well timed practises and assessment of oral skills. This room seats just over 100 students.

The learning, teaching and research needs of Swansea Legal Practice Course staff and students, as regards library and information communication technology (ICT) provision are met by Swansea University Library and Information Services (LIS).

The main library in the LIS Building has over 1100 study spaces with almost 500 of them networked with PCs. 42 PCs are set aside for postgraduate use in a segregated room. The Library has approximately 936,000 visits per annum, with total loans current running at around 960,000 per annum. Students can have access here to the law librarian and his team, as well as similarly qualified subject librarians and their teams, in order to receive any library/research assistance they may need.
