

SRA Update

Issue 117 - July 2023

- [General updates \[#tab_71521\]](#)
- [Compliance updates \[#tab_71522\]](#)

Welcome to the latest SRA Update. We may be heading towards holiday season, but I am sure that, like us, law firms are as busy as ever. Whether you are interested in the potential opportunities technology and innovation provides, why individuals from certain backgrounds may be overrepresented in complaints made to us, or insights from the unreserved legal sector, I hope you find this edition of SRA Update useful. For those of you who have not logged into your mySRA account recently, we also outline the arrangements we have introduced to make your account more secure, and explain you need to do whenever you log in the future.

The window is also now open for your firm to provide details about the diversity of your workforce. We run this exercise once every two years and your co-operation in providing the data by the 23 July deadline is greatly appreciated. Hopefully this may never apply to your firm, but you can also read about our new approach to issuing financial penalties – including the fixed penalties we can apply for lesser breaches of our rules, for example failure to respond to our diversity data exercise. I hope you find this edition of use, and that all of you who do manage a break over the summer, enjoy it.

Paul Philip

Chief Executive

Submit your firms' diversity information now [<https://www.sra.org.uk/solicitors/resources-archived/diversity-toolkit/your-data/>]

We require all law firms to report your firmwide diversity data every two years, and have written directly to your authorised signatory or organisational contact to request they now do this. If you hold either of these roles, you have until 23 July to complete your return.

[<https://www.sra.org.uk/mysra/updates/verifying-mysra-account/>]

To make your mySRA account more secure, we have introduced an additional verification step. Next time you log in, if you have not already done it, you will need to register a phone number. You will then need to have this phone with you whenever you log in in the future, so that we can send you a code by SMS text or call you to verify your identity.

Still time to have your say on our Corporate Strategy

[<https://www.sra.org.uk/sra/news/press/2023-press-releases/enhancing-confidence-legal-services/>]

There is still time for you to have your say on our proposed 2023-26 Corporate Strategy. The strategy has been developed after extensive discussions with a range of experts and outlines our proposed priorities and key work programmes for the next three years. If you are interested in having your say, consultation runs until 2 August.

Research on unreserved legal activities [<https://www.sra.org.uk/sra/news/press/2023-press-releases/information-protection-small-business-unreserved/>]

The unreserved legal services market is a significant part of the sector and providers are both regulated and unregulated. We undertook research on this area to see how businesses, individuals and the unregulated providers themselves felt about the legal services available. Find out what we discovered.

Your health, your career

[<https://www.sra.org.uk/solicitors/resources-archived/your-health-your-career/>]

Are you worried about your health affecting your work? Life as a solicitor can be challenging and the demands and pressures can easily build up. We can signpost you to sources of help and make adjustments for you if you are in difficulty.

Welcome to the latest Compliance News section of SRA Update. You will undoubtedly be aware of our focus on financial sanctions and efforts to keep money launderers out of legal services. That work has not let up, and there are important updates this month. The Government has laid out further details of a ban on providing services for Russian clients. We have also produced guidance on your different – but equally important – obligations under the Proceeds of Crime Act and Money-laundering Regulations. This issue also has advice from the UK Financial Intelligence Unit on submitting high-quality suspicious activity reports. We can never be complacent when it comes to thwarting money laundering.

Sanctions: Legal services

[<https://www.sra.org.uk/sra/news/sra-update-117-russian-services/>]

Restrictions are now in force on providing legal advisory services to non-UK persons in certain circumstances. Legal advisory services cannot be provided on this type of activity, even where the activity does not involve a UK person, or is not taking place in the UK.

Guidance on Proceeds of Crime Act obligations

[<https://www.sra.org.uk/solicitors/guidance/proceeds-crime-guidance/>]

You have obligations under both the money laundering regulations and the Proceeds of Crime Act, and sometimes these duties can differ. Our new guidance helps you understand those differences and what to do to comply with both regimes.

Trust Services sanctions

[<https://www.sra.org.uk/sra/news/sra-update-116-trust-sanctions/>]

It's now nearly six months since HM Treasury brought the provision of trust services into its financial sanctions regime. The Office of Financial Sanctions Implementation has published a blog to help clarify some of the issues that have arisen since then.

OFSI has also issued a new general licence covering prior obligations. Again, a blog explains how the licence works. The licence took effect from 22 May 2023 and expires on 21 November 2023. OFSI's consolidated list provides details of designated persons.
