

Qualifying work experience - what law clinics need to know

26 May 2021

Everyone looking to qualify through the SQE route - introduced this September - will need to have completed at least two years' work qualifying work experience (QWE).

Join us to get the latest information on what QWE is and what it means for law clinics. Find out about:

- what counts as QWE
- how it fits into the new SQE route
- what confirming QWE means for a solicitor
- practical tips for law clinics on implementing QWE
- tips for students looking to get QWE in a law clinic
- answers to your questions.

This free webinar is targeted at law clinics currently offering hands-on-legal experience to law school students, or those who might in the future. It may also be of interest to students interested in gaining QWE through a law clinic and want helpful tips.

Resources

Qualifying work experience for employers [<https://www.sra.org.uk/become-solicitor/sqe/qualifying-work-experience-employers/>]

Qualifying work experience for candidates [<https://www.sra.org.uk/become-solicitor/sqe/qualifying-work-experience-candidates/>]

Training template [<https://www.sra.org.uk/become-solicitor/sqe/qualifying-work-experience-candidates/qwe-training-template/>]